

Labor Project for Working Families

Partnering with unions to put families first.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Finding Affordable, Quality Child Care – A Guide for Union Parents

Order FREE Child Care Guide from the Labor Project for Working Families Today!

CONTACT: Jenya Cassidy: (510) 642-5498; jenya@working-families.org

Berkeley, CA: Monday, June 4, 2007

The Labor Project for Working Families and the California Federation of Teachers has created a FREE resource for union parents on finding quality child care and preschool. Quality Child Care – A Guide for Working Parents covers:

- The importance of quality child care and preschool to your child's development
- How to find quality child care
- Children's changing needs
- Community resources for child care
- How unions can help members with child care
- How we can improve child care in California

"Finding quality child care relieves a lot of stress at work," says Maria Rodriguez, member of Carpenters Union, Local 713. "The ideas and resources in this booklet are very helpful. There are also tips on ways unions can help members with child care issues."

Searching for quality child care is one of the biggest challenges new parents face: Studies show that the early years are key to a child's development, yet child care choices can be limited by low funds, unusual hours or lack of knowledge about what's available. This booklet provides ideas and resources that working parents can use. Order copies of the guide for working parents in your union today!

To order a FREE hard copy for your members, contact Jenya Cassidy at (510) 642-5498 or jenya@working-families.org. To view the publication online or download a free copy, go to: http://www.working-families.org/organize/childcare\_guide.html.

---

Publication funded by the David and Lucile Packard Foundation.

The Labor Project for Working Families is a national nonprofit advocacy and policy organization providing education, resources and technical assistance to unions on family issues in the workplace.

For the latest news, information, publications and resources on work and family issues visit our NEW and enriched website: www.working-families.org.